FREIGHT RATES SLASHED HALF BY ESPEE R. R.

Nevada Will Greatly Benefit in a General Way as Result of General Reduction

Reductions in freight rates on all commodities now moving under class rates from San Francisco and Sacramento to points in western Utah and Nevada, as well as locally within Nevada, ranging as high as 50 per cent and averaging about 25 per cent, will become effective Nov. 25 on intrastate shipments and Dec. 31 on interstate movements. It was announced yesterday by the Southern Pacific company.

The new rates, which are voluntary on the part of the Northern Pacific, and made after consultation with shippers organizations and public service commissions of the states concerned, will effect a complete revision of rates now in effect in that region from the top of the Sierra Nevada mountains eastward to western Utah. They also will iron out the present wide blanket of class rates from Sacramento to Nevada as well as establish relatively the same scale of rates to Southern Pacific branch line points in Nevada as applies to main line points, however, observing the principle followed in California of somewhat higher rates for branch line hauls than for main line hauls.

From San Francisco and Los Angeles, the new rates will be approximately the same amount in cents per 100 pounds in each class higher than the Sacramento rates as at present.

The installation of these new rates will form a more equitable basis for all freight moving under class rates from San Francisco, Los Angeles and Sacramento into Nevada and western Utah as well as from Salt Lake City and Ogden into Nevada.
